FROM THE DESK OF THE GRAND SECRETARY

Brothers and Sisters the time has come when we as Odd Fellows and Rebekahs must have a rude awakening so that we can get our Lodges to be active. This is the only way that we are going to rebuild this Order in this Jurisdiction.

Our Lodges must take an active part in the functions and projects that the Communities in which are planning and working on. In this manner the people in your Community will get to know you as well as the Odd Fellow and Rebekah Lodge in that area. If we will all quit sitting on our hands and begin to do something then we can attract new members into our individual Lodges and this Order.

Also, when we do get some younger members into our Lodges, let them put some of their ideas to work so that other people may be attracted and join, and, if some of our older members will surrender the reins and work with the younger members there is a lot of progress that can be made.

Let's inform the Communities of our Educational Programs, of our Eye Programs, our work with the Arthritis Foundation and let them know just what our Emblem really stands for.

Remember the Obligation that we all took when we became members and show the general public that we do live and practice what we preach.

Let's show that we are Friendly, we do Love one another, and that we do try to live in Truth.

But we must practice these words and not just utter them.
Truth Speaks Louder Than Words.

HE WAS HERE

Grand Master Nevin W. Adams and two of his Officers namely Donald Trulick and Gary Thiele visited Alert Lodge #936 on Thursday, January 27, 2000. Charles B. Kelly, P.G.M. and Grand High Priest of the Grand Encampment was also present.

Grand Conductor Donald Trulick acted as Grand Marshall and introduced D.D.G.M. Robert Kantorski of District 22 and Joseph Simbeck, D.D.G.M. of District 23, as well as Grand Herald Gary Thiele and Grand Master Nevin W. Adams.

A very good meeting was held and under the Good of the Order some kinds words were expressed by the Brothers as well as some from Falls Creek Lodge #957.

The Grand Master had some nice remarks stating that we must learn to communicate in order to keep going, and we definitely need youth. He stated that his project is for Junior Arthritis and several other topics.

Following the meeting a very nice lunch was served, and it was an evening of good Odd Fellowship which was enjoyed by all.

THANK YOU

A special thank you to all the Sisters and Brothers for the cards and phone calls I received during the passing of my sister, Leah. All acts of sympathy were greatly appreciated. God needed another angel up in heaven – so he chose my sister.

God Bless you all.

GROVE CITY RESIDENTS GIVE THANKS

Random locals tell what they are most thankful for this Thanksgiving

By Brittany Isenberger Allied News Intern

To an awful lot of people, Thanksgiving means turkey, stuffing, and before-Christmas sales, but many Grove City residents realize it is also a time to reflect on what they are thankful for.

"I'm thankful for everything; being able to get around," Florence Miller said.

Ron Elford said, "I'm thankful for a new job and a healthy child."

"I'm thankful for faith," Chris Straub said. "If you have that, you're good to go."

Children in the YMCA day care program are thankful for their friends, families, and a few extras.

"I'm thankful for my family, my home and clothes, because without clothes we'd have to wear leaves all over the place," Katie Bell, 10, said.

"I'm thankful for Lucy, my cocker spaniel puppy," Erika Cyphert, 5, said.

Clint Stevenson, 6, said "I'm glad we have turkeys, the YMCA and dogs."

"I'm thankful for my family, food, this whole YMCA and one more thing: the world," said Chauncey Miller, 6.

Ian Selbey, 10, said, "I'm thankful for freedom, my family, a school to go to and a home over my head."

Grove City College students are more specific in giving thanks, and are particularly glad to be on Thanksgiving break.

Freshman Mauria Novak said, "I am thankful to be able to see my family over break. You don't realize how much you miss them until you're gone."

"I'm really happy to have a future, and I'm well on my way in college," freshman Greg Metrick said.

"Right now I'm thankful for sleep, because I never get any," sophomore Shaun Freed said.

Senior Sue Jankowski said, "I'm just thankful that I won't get my tests back until after Thanksgiving break."

On a thoughtful note, freshman Christian Pepper said, "The only thing I'm really grateful for is that my mom is getting better. Her cancer is in remission."

Orchard Manor residents find Thanksgiving to be a time to give thanks for family and health.

"I'm thankful for my kids and the help I receive from them," Dorothy McCaney said, "also the wonderful friends I have."

"I'm thankful that I have seven children and twenty-some grandchildren," Eleanor Nelson said.

"Orchard Manor is pretty good," Don Greggs said, "so is the Thanksgiving dinner they serve here."

Downtown merchants and employees also gave thanks for their blessings.

Nancy Norris of Nancy's Hair Loft said, "I have four healthy, beautiful children and the most wonderful children in the world."

Erin Osborne, co-owner of Trousseau Couture said, "I'm thankful that we put our store in Grove City because the whole community has been very supportive."

"From a business standpoint," Coffee Grove Owner Jennifer Callahan, "I'm thankful for loyal customers in the community and in turn the friends I've made."

Mail carrier Veronica Norcross said, "I'm thankful for good friends and family and the way God provides for my family and me on a daily basis. I'm especially thankful when I look around at what people around the world are going through."

FREEPORT LODGE NO. 379

January 15, 2000

This year Freeport Lodge No. 379, marks its 151st anniversary of service to the surrounding communities. One example of that service has been in progress since August 18, 1958 when the Public Service Committee at No. 379 began providing hospital equipment to those in need. The equipment is available to anyone, at no charge. Deposits and donations are accepted, but not required. Past Grand Robert M. Henry who has worked on the committee longer than he can remember, heading it since 1972, said "Every cent donated is used for the repair and upkeep of those chairs." Brother Henry, an Odd Fellow for 57 years, has had a brisk business at times, stating that word of mouth advertising has been enough to keep him busy.

Over the years a good deal of equipment has been purchased by, or donated to, the lodge. Currently thirty-nine wheelchairs and dozens of other items, ranging from hospital beds to bath stools, are out in service. Wheelchairs are the item most sought by those in need and waiting in the wings are 25 wheelchairs in good working order. Another two dozen chairs are in need of minor repairs that Brother Henry and assistants Robert C. Hill and Robert W. Buterbaugh squeeze in when time allows.

Brother Hill, an Odd Fellow for 19 years, is a past Grand. Brother Buterbaugh is a 30-year member, is a past District Deputy Grand Master and has served as treasurer of No. 379 for 15 years. The trio also served their country in the armed forces. Both Brothers Henry and Hill are WWII veterans. Brother Henry served with the army in the South Pacific. Brother Hill served with the army in Europe. Brother Buterbaugh served in the air force during the Korean Conflict.

Besides wheelchairs, hundreds of other items are available, including: hospital beds, walkers, crutches, quad canes, regular canes, body lifts, bath stools, tub rails, potty chairs, commode extensions, commode rails, over bed tables, bed pans, geriatric chairs, foam pads and bedsides cabinets. Items available for children include: wheelchairs, invalid chair, corner chair, swing, tumble forms, infant high chair and infant potty chair.

MEADVILLE HOME BOARD MEMBERS REMEMBER JIMMY MOORE

Board members of the Odd Fellows Home of Western Pennsylvania again sponsored a Mitten Tree for the Jimmy Moore Fund.

Jimmy Moore was a young lad during the Great Depression. He wrote a letter to the Meadville Tribune Republican (as it was then known) asking for mittens or gloves for his Sister. His family was one of the many who felt the pangs of the times. His family was not going to have a Christmas that year because all money was for food.

As a result of the letter being published, he and many other children received mittens, gloves, and scarves.

This started the Annual Jimmy Moore Fund. This year again Mitten trees sprouted around Meadville. But times are different. Only 350 items were collected.

However the tree in the Odd Fellows Home collected 236 items. Again Odd Fellowship comes through. There were 590 Children at the party this year. Each received some item, such as a toy.

Those who work in the Home as well as Board Members contribute to the mitten tree. The Board will continue the Tree next year.

PROGRESSLAND PEOPLE

There's something to be said for longevity, and Anna Holt who has entered her Third Century can tell you her formula for successfully becoming a Centenarian.

Live a clean life, Miss Holt said during a recent interview. No smoking, no drinking, no carousing. God gave us all a brain, use it. Miss Holt of Phillipsburg has lived her life by example.

She was born in Tioga County in 1878, and at a young age she moved to Windburne when her life was simple but never dull. The grown ups didn't have any cars, and everyone walked unless they had a horse, and it was shoe leather express that got her to and from school she said was a beautiful building, and she loved going to school.

She went straight from graduating to teaching School in Windburne as there was no requirements for College in those days. Miss Holt had no problem recalling her life growing up in Windburne. There were no modern conveniences, no television, radios, or washing machines.

My mother had a big boiler in which she used to boil the clothes after which the clothes had to be hung out on the line no matter what the weather. There were no furnaces and the house was heated by a cook stove in the kitchen and a coal heating stove. There also were

THE GIVING SAMARITAN

(Inspired by a Catholic Bishop on TV)

The robbers believed in the "lesson divine" –
They should take it all, for what's yours is mine;
Robbing just happen to be my line,
And right this moment, we're doing fine.

The Levite felt in "the lesson divine" –
I'm downright sure that what's mine is mine;
Helping the Priest is my full-time line,
So I'll pass him by, I'm doing fine.

The Priest agreed in "the lesson divine"
I have no doubt that what's mine is mine;
Just being pious is my full-time line,
I'll just pass him by, I'm doing fine.

But the Good Samaritan really knew
That all that I have belongs to You.
It's a gift from God, we know that's true,
So I'll share what I have with this suffering Jew.

It's been quite so since the world began
That those who know their Creator's plan,
Will give and give as much as they can
To the pain of their fellow man.

no electric lights. She did not have electric lights until she was married. She and her Husband, Walter Dewey moved to Buffalo, NY for a member of years prior to returning to Phillipsburg.

After teaching school for three years she took a job in a bank where she worked for 15 years.

Miss Holt recalls walking to parties at the Lamse Lutheran Church when there were no street lights. Where they played games after which they all walked home, and no one was ever molested. There was an ice skating rink where they used to do a lot of ice skating, and there was also a roller skating rink. She won many prizes as she loved to skate.

Miss Holt is a lifelong member of the Presbyterian Church, and she is still a member of the True Blue Sunday School Class. She also had taught Adult Bible School. She is a member of the Phillipsburg Women's Club the Rebekahs, and the Eastern Star.

She is one of the Charter Members of Aster Rebekah Lodge No. 177 which she became a member of in December of 1925. She is still active as much as she can be.

Her quote is that "you are responsible to yourself for the kind of life that you life."

She will be 102 in April of this year.

SANTA PICTURES FOR ARTHRITIS

At the January meeting of the Arthritis Committee, Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus (aka Wally and Phyllis Shakley) presented Grand Master, Nevin Adams with a donation, for Camp JRA (Juvenile Arthritis).

This past Christmas Season they added a project to their visits to children and families.

Polaroid pictures were offered for a donation, of anyone wanting a picture with the Jolly Odd Fellow. The people were told in advance of the project and where the money was going and the response was great. He was honored to hold babies of five months to great grandparents in their 80s. An older couple got their pictures taken – stating it was the only occasion they had ever had to sit together on Santa's knee. Whole families and several miscellaneous groups at family parties got into the act.

There were donations contributed without pictures being taken.

A letter has been sent to each group that participated with a picture of the presentation like the one enclosed. Mr. and Mrs. Santa' have already booked several appointments for next year and are looking forward to an even bigger response.

CHANGES MARK TRIO'S JOURNEY IN THREE CENTURIES

By Dan Sheehan, of our Dillsburg Bureau

Strictly speaking, Charlie Blauser, Silvanus Stoner and Bridget Funk will not have lived in three Centuries until next year, but who will quibble?

All were born in the 19th Century, lived through the high winds of the 20th and today are easing into the 21st on the gentle rhythms of old age.

Charlie Blauser, a 102-year-old World War I veteran, earned the French government's Legion of Honor, its highest award.

They have 309 years among them. Funk is the oldest – a 107-year-old retired Seamstress from Steelton who lives at the ManorCare assisted living center in Camp Hill.

She donned a pretty green dress one recent morning to greet a visitor who wanted to know about her century-plus of living, which included two world wars, a worldwide depression and men on the moon.

But asked to look backward and name the most important event of her impossibly eventful times, she lifted her silvered head and said, "My first Holy Communion."

That was 100 years ago, more or less, at the outset of a life Funk summarized with pleasing simplicity.

"Happiness," she said. "I was happy."

Blauser, who lives with a Granddaughter in York County's Washington Twp., is a 102-year-old World War I veteran. For his service in France with an Army Transportation Unit, he earned the French Government's Legion of Honor, its highest award.

He also spent 60 years in wedded bliss and improved upon his eighth-grade education by virtually memorizing an encyclopedia, so living in the 1800s, 1900s and now the 2000s doesn't overly impress him.

"I didn't do anything special to live this long," he said, sitting back on a cozy couch at the Dillsburg Area Senior Center, his home away from home. "I never thought I'd live this long when I was younger."

He does not, of course, remember his first half-dozen or so New Year's, but that seems to be about all he doesn't remember.

"My memory's too good," he said. "I remember too damn much."

He can probably outduel any Schoolteacher in a battle of Name the Presidents – the 18 he has lived under and all the rest besides.

"You know who the father of our country is?" he asked.

A visitor ventured to say, "George Washington."

"Nope," Blauser said. "It's Tyler. He had eight kids."

Which reminded him of the joke about the 80-year-old man who tells his daughter he is getting married.

"The daughter," Blauser recounted gleefully, "says 'Why would an 80-year-old man want to get married?'"

"And the man says 'Who says I want to?'"

Stoner, a native of New Kingstown in Cumberland County, is the junior member of this senior trio, three months past his 100th birthday. He celebrated that milestone with his second wife, 95-year-old Mary, at the County Meadows assisted living center in Hampton Twp.

They were married 11 years ago, when Stoner – friends call him

"Sil" – was 89.

"It's never too late," he mused.

Stoner knows all about Y2K and other contemporary anxieties, but he insisted people are better off today than when he was a youngster. Most of them have no memory of the Great Depression, which defined success for Stoner's generation as the ability to survive.

"I think they are better off, yes," he said slowly. "I think they are more content and able to make a better living. I spent many years as a young fellow working for a dollar a day for a farmer. I found out there are better ways to make a living."

His way was to go to work for Bell Atlantic. He spent the early part of his career promoting the telephone.

"These days everyone has a telephone," he said. "Well, they didn't back then."

Blauser, who retired from York Corrugating Co. in 1961 – "There's not many live this long after retiring," he noted – also said the world is better in most respects than the one of his youth.

"I went from coal light to gas light to electric light," he said. "I went from horse-drawn carriage to automobile. A lot of changes. I've seen a lot of improvements."

He has also been disappointed by change, he hastened to add.

"I remember in the 1930s, shrimp was 29 cents a pound," he said, shaking his head. "Now it's eight or nine dollars. I don't see why it should be so high."

Neither man will choose any one historical event as the most important of the century, though Blauser will admit that his 13 months overseas during World War I had the deepest impact on his own life.

"That's a thing I don't much talk about," he said. "I could b.s. you and tell you I won the whole war, but I want to forget it."

Stoner, peering through his heavy glasses, seemed to find the question of the century's most significant event impossible to answer.

"It's a big question," he said. "That's a hard one."

Stoner, Funk and Blauser are not historians or textbook writers. Foremost in their minds when they reminisce are personal moments – births, deaths, weddings, holidays.

Blauser cherishes memories of his wife, Gretna, who died in 1982 after 60 years of marriage. They traveled across the country together and collected enough memories for two lifetimes.

"I've had my feet in the Atlantic and the Pacific and the Gulf of Mexico," he said. "I drove 150 miles out of my way one time to see the grave of Billy the Kid. I've seen enough. In other words, I've had a good life."

Silvanus Stoner, 100, married his 95-year-old wife 11 years ago. "It's never too late," he said.

ODD FELLOWS – MIDDLETOWN

January was enjoyed by all at The Odd Fellow Home. The Community was involved to help us celebrate the year 2000. Garden Chapel Youth Group sang along with Residents to well known tunes for their Holiday delight. They'll visit again in February.

Residents toasted the new year by participating in a New Year's Eve Party. They socialized with friends, snacked on hors d'oeuvres and used noisemakers to ring in the New Year!

Representative Gekas wishes Stella Fritz a Happy 107th Birthday!

DON'T LET FLU SEASON INTERRUPT THIS YEAR'S HOLIDAY SEASON

By Christian Greggs, Allied News Staff Writer

The end of the November month signals the start of two seasons: the holiday season and the influenza season.

Influenza, commonly called the flu, is a virus that spreads from infected persons to the nose or throat of other people, according to the Center for Disease Control and Prevention.

The symptoms commonly associated with the flu are sore throat, muscle aches, fever, coughing and chills.

Most people infected with the flu virus are ill for a few days, but there are cases in which people have to be hospitalized.

While the flu is generally thought to be more of a nuisance than a harmful affliction, there are thousands of deaths each year that are attributed to the flu virus, according to the CDC.

Despite the grim outlook, there is a way to combat the disease in the form of an influenza vaccine.

The "flu shot," invented in the 1950s, is the best defense against the flu, according to the CDC.

Each year the vaccine is updated by replacing one or more of the vaccine viruses with newer ones, the CDC said. This is done because the viruses that cause influenza change often.

Although anyone of any age can be infected with the virus, people at the highest risk for catching the "flu bug" are the elderly and health care workers.

Because of their prolonged exposure to persons with chronic medical conditions, nursing home employees are encouraged to get the vaccine.

"We have always give flu shots, free of charge, to our employees," said Diane Robinson, the nursing home administrator for Orchard Manor, Grove City.

Last Tuesday, the home, along with Superior Ambulance Service, sponsored a walk-in clinic for the community in which flu shots were given free of charge.

One hundred flu vaccines were donated to the home by UPMC Horizon Hospital of Pittsburgh.

Even though she isn't in the high risk category for catching influenza, Anita Gibson, of Franklin, took advantage of the free flu vaccine at the walk-in clinic.

You'll only feel a pinch

Kris Goas, an EMT for Superior Ambulance Service, gives a fellow EMT a flu shot at last Tuesday's walk-in clinic that was sponsored by Orchard Manor Nursing Home, Grove City. People that work in the health field are urged to get a flu shot once a year at the start of the flu season.

"I've been sick a lot this year," Gibson said, so she decided the shot was a good idea.

Other persons that are in a high risk group are those with weakened immune systems and their care givers.

"My husband is on kidney dialysis," said Connie Puckley, who took advantage of the free shot with her two children.

"I get a flu shoot every year because I have asthma, and when I get the flu I get it real bad," said Malerie Hambley, of Grove City.

While the flu vaccine greatly reduces risk of catching the flu, it doesn't prevent it, though it can lessen the virus' effects.

"People think that because they got one least year they don't need this year and that's not true," said Kris Goas, an EMT for Superior Ambulance Service.

The effects of the vaccine last six months, and by the time the next flu season starts the vaccine's effectiveness has diminished. The effects of the flu vaccine begin two weeks after the shot is administered.

However, not everyone can enjoy the effects of flu shots. People with a serious allergy to eggs and anyone with a history of the Guillian-Barre Syndrome should consult a doctor before getting the shot, according to the CDC.

Also, those who are moderately or severely ill at the time of the shot should wait until recovered, according to the CDC.

There are also risks to getting a flu shot because there is a chance of an allergic reaction, according to the CDC.

Mild reactions to the shot are aches or soreness where the shot was given. A severe reaction to the vaccine usually occurs within a few minutes to a few hours after the shot has been administered. The reaction could include fever, hoarseness, difficulty breathing and weakness.

Anyone experiencing these symptoms after receiving the shot is urged to get to a doctor right away, according to the CDC.

The flu season usually starts at the end of November and can last up to the early weeks of April.

The CDC is a national organization that studies infectious diseases and is headquartered in Atlanta, Georgia.
